The novelty of the evening was the duet on the Viol de Gamba and the Viola d'Amour by Mario Blodeck and Richard Stoelzer The former is a six stringed instrument, and the latter has fourteen, both rare musical products of two centuries ago Herr Theodore Hoch fully maintained his reputation as a cornetist and was heartily encored The violin solo by Mr Percy W Mitchell and the flute solo by Herr Carl Kraushaar also deserve special mention

The Populists Ready

The gentlemen of the city who style themselves the Populists seem to be taking more interest in the coming municipal elections than any other class and are ready for the fight whatever it may be They held a preliminary meeting last evening to appoint committees to organize the work The meeting was held in the city council room and about two dozen people were present Mr E. F Dickson was chosen chairman and J M Downing secretary

Mr William Scott announced the object of a meeting to be the organization for work which would include the appointing of the central committee There seemed to be a good many orators present and after speeches were called for a number spoke and proceeded to air their views for over an hour Among them were Mr Dickson Mr Scott Judge Abbott Alderman Finnegan and others The discussion included a wide range of questions from finance to constitutional government It might also be said incidentally that it included a number of thrusts at the local government as well as his excellency the Populist governor The meeting finally got around to the work of the evening and the following city central committee was appointed First ward William Henderson second ward, Charles Guysler third ward Henry Parks fourth ward Mr Wilson fifth ward D M Wright It was voted that the committee should meet next Saturday evening and name its call for city and ward conventions to nominate candidates

The meeting concluded with a few more remarks from various parties, during which Henry Parks advocated paying aldermen larger salaries so that poor men could afford to accept the offices. William Scott, however, said "that we have came here because we are interested in good government." He did not think that anyone present was looking for office, but still there are good men in town who would accept them for the sake of benefiting the city

Policemen's Charity Ball

The Second annual ball of the Colorado Springs police force was given in Durkee hall last evening, and was a pronounced success. It was thought that the first ball last year could hardly be beaten but the one last evening excelled it in every way The policemen have chosen St. Valentine's night for their annual entertainments and devote the proceeds to charity No one has a better opportunity than they to know where charity is needed in the city, and the people understanding this are always liberal in their patronage Durkee hall was filled to overflowing last night and it is estimated that fully four hundred people were present. In fact the crowd was too large to permit of dancing comfortably until a late hour in the evening

The arrangements were perfect in every way The opera house orchestra furnished the music for the evening, the full orchestra being present, and Mr Chas Berry was the caller At 11 o'clock supper was served at the various restaurants of the city. The decorations of the room included a large floral piece suspended from the ceiling It represented a policeman's star of six points made of cut flowers In the center and from the various points of the star were blue electric lights. The effect was very beautiful The order of dances consisted of twenty numbers, and the programme was very handsomely printed On the front was a small photograph of City marshal Dana.

The committees having charge of the affair were as follows Arrangements—Marshal L C Dana, Capt. J W Gathright Officers Steve Harlan and Horace Shelby reception L. C Dana, R. M Martin Henry Shank James McCabe floor committee J W Gathright, M J Wilson Joel Atkinson C F Taylor

Marshal Dana and all of the policemen were present during the evening and did everything in their power to make the occasion pleasant A goodly sum will be realized to be devoted to charitable purposes

The following [illegible] Adjutant general Artz [illegible] You are hereby [illegible] command of all [illegible] sas National Guard [illegible] around the state house [illegible] By order of [illegible]

Upon receiving [illegible] mediately to [illegible]

A [illegible]

At the instance of [illegible] licans, this afternoon [illegible] consisting of Mr. [illegible] Mr. Culbertson, to [illegible] and agree upon [illegible] hostilities. They [illegible] agree to adjourn [illegible] in the supreme court [illegible] The governor would [illegible] ation, but suggested [illegible] house adjourn [illegible] the Republicans [illegible] At 2:45 Colonel Hughes [illegible] of thirty militia [illegible] wing of the state house [illegible] The house of representatives [illegible]

As soon as the Republicans [illegible] control of the hall they [illegible] of business offering [illegible] calling the roll and the [illegible] any interest in the proceedings [illegible] Hale of Rush arose to a question of privilege and addressing the [illegible] it was fitting that the efforts of [illegible] Douglass should be recognized [illegible] brothers and desired to present [illegible] name of the house the [illegible] had used to call the house to order [illegible] ing. As he said this he [illegible] hind his desk the big sledge hammer [illegible] speaker had employed to open the [illegible] the hall. This was the signal for [illegible] cheering and when Douglass received [illegible] the hands of the page he held it [illegible] members stood up and cheered [illegible] Douglass used it as a gavel [illegible] fairly danced. Douglass then [illegible] house a proclamation which he [illegible] pared relating what had taken place [illegible] calling upon the people of the state to [illegible] to the support of the Republican [illegible]. The proclamation was greeted with wild [illegible] ism.

The Populist house met in the basement of the west wing of house to-day [illegible] to adjournment, but almost immediately journed until to-morrow.

A CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS.

Governor Lewelling issued a proclamation this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock stating that as the state militia now in Topeka, was not sufficient, five provisional companies would be organized, composed of volunteers [illegible] three companies, however, have been organized and they are of thirty men each. [illegible] Lindsay was made captain of Company A; J. A. McDonald of Parsons, captain of Company B, and a Mr. Orr of Olathe, captain of Company C. The other companies will be organized if necessary.

Since the inauguration of the Populist government the state militia has received but little official attention. The appointment of Adjutant general Artz was only confirmed yesterday. He is not very conversant with military affairs and during the [illegible] to-day he has acted merely in the capacity of an orderly to Governor Lewelling.

D. M. Scott, a Republican member from Hodgeman county who happened to be in Ottawa to-day, telegraphed that he would be here with 300 armed men on the first train and D. R. Anthony telegraphed that [illegible] men would come from Leavenworth. Columbus [illegible] telegraphed that 400 men would come from there at the command of Speaker Douglass.

THE EVENING SITUATION.

In response to the call made by the governor, companies of militia began to arrive this evening, and by to-morrow [illegible] every military company in the state will be concentrated here. The Populist plan now is to starve the Republicans out in representative hall, and to this end they propose to surround the hall with a cordon of [illegible] and not allow Republicans to pass [illegible] until they say they are willing to surrender the hall. To this end as fast as the [illegible] companies arrive they are being stationed around the hall, every entrance and exit of which is now completely guarded by militia or Populist guards. The streets are swarming with groups of armed Republicans, many of whom [illegible] to-night on special [illegible] trains. They say that if the militia attempts to prevent breakfast being taken into the Republicans in the morning there will be trouble [illegible] in that event they propose to simply sweep the militia into the Kansas river. It is not believed that the militia will fight in the interests of the Populists. Judges have said that they do not have to do so and the sheriff of the county says he is unable to [illegible] the peace. Most of the militia are Republicans.

REPUBLICAN MILITIA.

The Wichita battery arrived to-night with a Gatling gun and accompanied by three hundred armed Republicans. One of the officers of the company said significantly: "If our Gatling gun is ever fired, it will not hit any Republicans." It is generally believed that if the militia have to fight they will fight under the Republican banner.

To-night another effort to bring about peace was made and Governor Lewelling was induced to go to the state house, but he would not listen to any proposals from the Republicans, only repeating that if the [illegible] not surrender the hall he would have it cleaned by the militia to-morrow. The situation is a grave one and nine men out of every ten believe that to-morrow will bring the bloodiest conflict that Kansas ever saw. Populist caucus [illegible] to-night and decided that their motto should be "No compromise."

PLANS FOR TO-DAY.

At a late hour to-night Governor Lewelling announced that early to-morrow morning the militia would be instructed to clear Representative hall. The Republicans say they will not resist the regular militia but if the provisional companies organized by the Populists to-day attempt to drive them out, they will kill some of them. The Republicans will leave the hall and [illegible] the Grand Opera house, and continue their session until the supreme court [illegible] a decision. Then if the decision is favorable to them, they will storm Representative hall with 5000 armed men. This [illegible] which has been agreed [illegible] will be carried out if the Republicans [illegible]. All is quiet now and [illegible] more will happen to-night.

THE SHERIFF HEARD FROM

He Issues a Proclamation Ordering the Disbanding of the Militia

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 16.—The sheriff of [illegible] county issued a proclamation [illegible] declaring that he is the peace officer of Shawnee county, and notifying the [illegible] that he must disband the [illegible] capitol building. The sheriff has [illegible] deputies, who will march to the [illegible] before morning.

A REPUBLICAN RECRUIT

The Commander of the Militia Refuses to Serve Against the Legal House

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 16.—Colonel Hughes, commander of the militia, created a sensation by appearing in the representative hall at midnight and stating to the Republicans that he had [illegible] and would not lead troops to clear the hall. He said his men were with him and could not be used to such a purpose. [illegible] great excitement.

The house then went [illegible] one of the [illegible] to consider the Hynes bill, known as the [illegible] bill, which was under consideration on Monday last. The opposition [illegible] that persons could not [illegible] when their property was in [illegible] danger [illegible] to the sheriff and a [illegible] for the employment of an [illegible].

After a few amendments had been offered and several of them adopted, none of which however, were considered by the supporters of the bill as an improvement, a motion was made to have it re-printed. This motion was bitterly opposed by Mr. Hynes. He said God only knew where the bill would end up.

Mr. [illegible] explained that the bill ought to be printed and on members' desks today. This was satisfactory to Mr. Hynes and the bill passed the second reading with the understanding that it be re-printed before coming up for final passage.

SENATE.

At the opening of the morning session in the senate the committee on mines and mining was granted the use of the senate chamber for to-morrow evening to hold an open meeting to discuss Senator Wheeler's bill providing the mode of payment of obligations of debt to be paid in money. Some amendments were made to Senator Israel's bill concerning the custody and control of funds subject to the control of courts of record, at the request of the finance committee, and the bill was then considered as read a third time and placed upon its final passage.

The railroads and corporations committee [illegible] the bill to regulate the prices [illegible] sleeping berths in parlor cars be laid on the table [illegible] Adopted.

Senator Barela, as chairman of the special [illegible] to arrange for the legislative visit of New Mexico, reported that it has been [illegible] agreed between the committees of both houses and the New Mexico legislature to leave over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road for Santa Fe at [illegible] p. m., Feb. 25, so as to arrive at their destination by 4 o'clock the next day.

Senator Boyd's concurrent resolution relating to the Pacific railroad, and government action thereon, was reported correctly printed. Senator Wheeler moved its adoption and was seconded by Senator Boyd. On motion of Senator Wibber the resolution was made a special order of business for Friday at 2 o'clock.

Then the senate took up the third reading of bills and passed bills Nos. 73 and 49, considered yesterday and sent to the committee for minor amendments.

Senator Lockwood presented a petition in favor of a bill for additional toll roads in the counties of Huerfano and Costilla.

The finance committee recommended the bill to pay the Groton Iron Bridge company a balance alleged to be due on account of the Grand river bridge, be indefinitely postponed. Adopted.

Bill No. 249, to reimburse the contractors for the state reservoir on Apishapa Creek for their losses in construction of said work, met with a like fate.

General orders were next under discussion, the senate going into committee on the whole for that purpose, with Senator Gunnell in the chair. The first bill considered was that of Senator B. L. Smith of the Fourteenth, providing for only one term of the district court in Costilla county, instead of two. It was agreed to and reported for third reading.

Senator Drake's bill regarding the payment and salaries to certain officers and providing for the disposition of certain fees was referred to the finance committee.

Senator Webber's bill concerning proceedings in criminal cases, was laid over until to-morrow morning.

Senator Pease's bill to exempt firemen from poll tax and jury duty was discussed, and it was decided to lay the measure indefinitely upon the table.

Then the upper house had under consideration Senator Painter's bill to amend section [illegible] of an act to increase the aggregate number of senators and representatives in Colorado [illegible] and to fix the ratio of apportionment thereof. Senator Painter explained that the only change in his amendment to the act was to include Phillips county in the Twenty-fifth senatorial district. Senators Hartzell and White spoke in favor of the bill. Senator Steck said he did not object to it, except [illegible] unconstitutional. The bill was finally agreed to and passed for third reading. The committee then rose and recess was taken.

At the afternoon session the senate went into committee of the whole with Senator [illegible] in the chair.

Senate Bill No. [illegible] McGovney's providing [illegible] of the area for public buildings [illegible] federal government, and having special reference to an extended [illegible] of a [illegible] at Colorado Springs, went to the committee [illegible] after being recommended for final passage.

Senate Bill No. [illegible] providing for prospecting and developing the mineral [illegible] of the state and for their sale by the state board of land commissioners, relating to [illegible] claims on state lands, was objected to by Senator Hartzell, [illegible] the bill was unconstitutional. Referred to committee on mines and mining.

Senate Bill No. [illegible] McKinley's, appropriating $[illegible] for the establishment of an agricultural experiment station in Cheyenne county was taken up and sent back to the finance committee.

Senate Bill No. 52, McKinley's authorizing the probate judge to appoint a board of visitors for the inspection of all charitable and corrective institutions located in that county, was recommended for final passage and sent to the committee on revision.

Senate Bill No. 213, (McGovney) providing for the punishment of persons raising birds for shooting matches was referred to committee on [illegible] and game.

FOR ANNEXATION.

President Harrison Transmits a Message to the Senate

THE DRAFT OF A TREATY.

It Will Be Ratified. A Provision for the Queen. An Argument for Annexation. A Rousing Debate by Prominent Senators.

THE [illegible] OF RATIFYING.

There [illegible] little doubt that the treaty submitted to-day will be promptly ratified. Whether [illegible] legislation will be enacted during the life of the present congress remains to be seen.

The senate refused to-day to make public the terms of the president's message or the treaty, or correspondence, but will do so to-morrow. [illegible] his message had started from the White House the president left town for a long deferred duck shooting excursion to his favorite box at Bengies, Md. He will [illegible] for the remainder of the week. Great interest was displayed in the senate on the receipt of the president's message.

By accident Mr. Marsden, one of the Hawaiian commissioners, was in the senate gallery at the time. Mr. Marsden is the only native Englishman on the commission, and the proceedings of congress are to him quite a novelty. During the sojourn of the commission in Washington he has been a frequent visitor to the capitol. His first appearance there was the day upon which the electoral vote was officially announced. On that occasion he and his associates were provided with seats in the diplomatic gallery. Since then he has contented himself with a seat in the public gallery. Senator Sherman passed the word around the chamber early in the day that the president intended to communicate with the senate on the subject before adjournment.

THE ANNEXATION TREATY.

As soon as the message was received Senator Sherman moved to proceed to the consideration of executive business. The galleries were cleared and the doors closed, whereupon Vice president Morton broke the seal of the package containing the much-talked-of Hawaiian treaty.

There was an unusually large attendance and the reading of the message and the accompanying treaty were followed with interest. It provides for the annexation of the islands and the present provisional government is authorized to continue its functions until further legislation by congress can be had on the subject.

A single provision is made for the deposed queen, who is to receive $20,000 a year, and [illegible] the royal family. All property rights on the islands are preserved, and in the meantime the laws of the United States, such as are enforced in Alaska, will be observed. All the inhabitants of the islands who are restricted from citizenship under the existing laws are to be treated as sojourners. This applies to the Chinese who are already there.

The Chinese restriction act is to be observed there just as it is in this country. The United States is to assume all the debts of Hawaii and receive all the revenues. It is understood that the debts are about $3,000,000, while the receipts from all sources average about $10,000,000 annually. The present form of government is to be maintained until congress has had an opportunity to devise a more convenient system. The present form of government for Alaska is recommended as desirable. The details are to be determined later.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The president, in his message of transmittal, reviews at considerable length the negotiations that have taken place since the arrival of the Hawaiian commissioners in Washington, also the history of the question for the past half century. He includes all the correspondence from Minister Stevens. He recommends that the terms of the United States must be accepted by the provisional government, and put into effect within two months after the treaty is ratified by the senate.

A RUSHING DEBATE.

After the reading of the treaty and the message was concluded, there was a running debate in which Senators Sherman, Morgan, White and others participated. Senator Morgan pointed out the benefits to be derived by this country from annexation, and especially urged the necessity and importance of prompt action. He took occasion in a quiet way to pay a graceful tribute to President Harrison. Several senators asked questions of Senator Sherman, to which the latter replied by reading or having read portions of the topics to which the questions referred.

One of the strongest arguments used in support of the treaty was the proposition to establish a first class naval and coaling station at Honolulu. The importance of this point was brought out with great force by Senator Morgan in a second speech.

ORDERED TO BE PRINTED.

There was a general discussion as to the advisability of giving the treaty and the message to the public at once, but it was decided to follow the usual precedent and send the documents to the committee on foreign relations with instructions to print. It is the intention of Senator Sherman to call the matter up again as soon as the documents are printed.

FOREIGN ACQUISITIONS.

An interesting chart has been prepared by the hydrographic officer, and was sent to the senate to-day. The chart is intended for the use of the foreign relations committee, and will show in detail the islands near the United States that either belong to foreign governments or over which they have a protectorate. A glance at the chart shows that England [illegible] to have a network of depot stations [illegible] and what she does not have France has. In the West Indies England has the larger number. Her latest acquisitions are the Gardner and Dangler islands, which she seized last year. She took the Gilberts in 1892 another large island called Ellice the same year and a number of smaller ones. In 1890 she annexed several bits of islands near the Fiji islands and the next year [illegible] more near Samoa, which is practically surrounded by her territory. Three [illegible] hundred miles due west of Hawaii she has two more, Johnston and Coral islands. From the chart it can be seen that England has gradually encroached towards the United States on the Pacific, the only islands she has not taken being the Hawaiian group. France has taken the Loyalty island and a little one called Uva not far from Samoa. Germany has hung on to the Marshall and Admiralty islands. The United States is shown by the chart to have no outlying possessions except the Aleutian islands in Behring sea and Midway island north of Hawaii.

DISMISSED FROM OFFICE.

Dr. Hughes Charged with a Technical Malfeasance by Governor Waite.

DENVER, [illegible] Dr. [illegible] Hughes [illegible] was to-day [illegible] by Governor Waite [illegible] following notice [illegible]

[illegible] DAVIS H. WAITE, Governor."

[illegible] the governor [illegible] Dr. Hughes had violated the [illegible] by failing to turn in the funds [illegible] to the state treasurer instead of paying the money out, and not making a report for four years.

The peremptory dismissal created considerable comment, in view of the fact that dishonesty is not charged, neither does any one question that the money has been honestly disbursed. It is only maintained that it was not handled in strict keeping with the law governing this office.

But now comes the state treasurer, who will proceed against the ex-treasurer of the state medical board for the collection of $[illegible] collected in fees by the department, but which was disbursed without having passed through the hands of the state treasurer.

Dr. Hughes was seen soon after the order was issued. In reply to the reporter's questions he said he had heard the news, but it had not disturbed him very much. He proposed to stand by his report, and he knew that no one would question his honor. The matter hinged on a technical point and that was all there was of it. At the proper time he would say more, but at present he preferred not to discuss the matter.

Another Cabinet Announcement.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 15.—Three selections for Mr. Cleveland's cabinet yet remain to be filled. They are the attorney general, secretary of the navy and the secretary of agriculture. For attorney general three men are frequently mentioned. They are ex-Senator Jenks, Congressman Culberson and Congressman Wilson of West Virginia.

Mr. Cleveland, however, has made another official cabinet announcement. Hoke Smith of Georgia is the fifth addition to the slate and he was assigned to-day to the secretaryship of the interior. Mr. Cleveland has, as a matter of fact, selected the three other men who will complete his cabinet. He would not make their names public, because he has not decided as to the department which each shall have. In other words, with the exception of Carlisle and Gresham, Mr. Cleveland selected the men whom he wanted in his cabinet and afterwards [illegible] them out and measured them for portfolios. His policy of announcing his cabinet [illegible] and of letting it be known that no [illegible] need apply was prompted by a desire to keep off visiting delegations who [illegible] favorite sons. Mr. Cleveland [illegible] to be let alone just at present.

The Wyoming Contest.

CHEYENNE, Feb. 15.—The Thompson [illegible] went up to the capitol to-day to elect the United States senator. The general impression had gone abroad through the city that a senator was to be elected and consequently there was never such a crowd present as today. President Mondell announced that visitors would not be permitted to applaud. The vote stood: General Thompson 24, Beck 4, Brown 1; necessary to a choice 25. Thus it will be [illegible] that General Thompson came within one of an election.

The four Populists addressed a note last night to Chairman Kabis of the Democratic caucus saying that they would stay with General Thompson until the first ballot was ended to-day and no longer, and that they would not vote for any other Democrat. "This," Speaker Tidball said, "will be carried out to the letter." The Democrats are therefore out of the race, and if a senator is elected at all he will be a Republican. Nat Baker is the one Democrat who refused to vote for Thompson, and he is held responsible for the defeat of the party and is being roundly denounced by them in [illegible].

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Senator Hill neither denies nor affirms the published [illegible] that he intends to antagonize the nomination of Judge Gresham for a place in Mr. Cleveland's cabinet. He [illegible] the law emphatically states that members of the cabinet shall be selected by and with the consent of the senate, so that there is no force in the statement that the president may put anybody in the cabinet he sees fit. It is true the general practice is to allow the president to choose his own advisers, but if [illegible] feels that the persons [illegible] are not acceptable to them they have a right to reject them, and he cites an instance during Andrew Johnson's administration, when the senate refused to confirm a certain man who had been nominated for a very important place.

There may be other senators who feel outraged from a Democratic standpoint at the selection of Judge Gresham, but it is hardly probable that they will attempt to oppose his confirmation.

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Money on call has been easy, ranging from 2 to 4; last loan at 2, and closing offered at 2.

Trading in stocks to-day especially during the forenoon was very active with some excitement under pronounced selling of the Industrials and a few specialties among the railroads. The excitement quieted down and a substantial rally in prices followed later in the day, though considerable feverishness marked the dealings throughout. The weakness of last night caused by the disappointment over the failure of the bankers to induce the secretary of the treasury to issue bonds for gold and thus relieve the financial situation, while aiding the banks, was continued under vigorous attacks by the bears on all the vulnerable spots. The rest of the market sympathized only in part with these movements and the fluctuations among the railroad shares were generally confined to fractional amounts during the entire day.

The sales of listed stocks to-day aggregated 295,948 shares, and of unlisted stock 11,108 shares.

CIVIL WAR IN KANSAS

The contest in Kansas has assumed a belligerent phase rather sooner than we expected but it was evident all along that unless a peaceable arrangement could be reached very soon an outbreak of violence would be sure to follow. Two legislatures each claiming to be the only lawful body cannot sit more than six weeks in the same room without danger of a breach of the peace.

It was time that the farce should end. The body of Populists claiming to be the House of Representatives of the State of Kansas has no title whatever to that designation except one acquired by revolutionary methods fraud forgery and violence. Some of its members are members of the legislature but they constitute a minority of the House, and have no more legal right to make laws for the State than has the Topeka Chamber of Commerce.

The animus of this so called Populist House is seen in its resolution adopted Tuesday, declaring that "whereas, an attempt has been made to arrest the chief clerk of this House by an organized mob calling themselves the Republican House of Representatives, but which we believe to be in reality the Santa Fe railroad, therefore be it resolved, that we, the legally organized House of Representatives, proclaim to the State of Kansas that the mob was foiled and our flag is still flying."

Was ever a piece of more arrant demagogism and clumsy mendacity put on record in a gathering of Americans? The "organized mob" contains a majority of the legally elected members of the Kansas House of Representatives. As for believing that this "mob" is the Santa Fe railroad, that is so evident a piece of demagoguery that no sane man pays any attention to it. The only wonder is that this Populist-Anarchist aggregation did not accuse the Republican House of Representatives of being "money sharks," or "bloated bondholders," or "tools of Wall Street." That is the usual . . . that hurled by the Populists at any one who differs with them in regard to any subject whatever, political, economic, social or religious.

The trouble in Kansas may come to such a pass that it will be the duty of the President of the United States to carry out the guaranty of the Constitution that every State shall have a republican form of government. At present, the state of Kansas seems to be ruled by an anarchistic mob which defies the courts, which scarcely makes a practice of justice, and which is bound to rule or ruin the State, regardless of the legally cast votes of its citizens or the decisions of its legal tribunals.

The barring of the Republican legislators out of the Capitol was a high handed act, resisted in a high handed way. The Republican legislators have just as good a right in the Capitol as the governor himself, and he entirely transcends his powers in ordering the militia to eject them. It is a revolutionary act which can be met only with revolutionary methods.

CHOLERA PREVENTION

The outbreak of cholera in Marseilles, its presence in Hamburg and the certainty of its appearance on our shores in the Spring emphasize the necessity of an adequate quarantine service at all our ports and along our Northern and Southern boundaries as well. To this end, a national quarantine service is absolutely necessary and unless there is some further legislation by Congress the responsibility of keeping cholera away from our borders will devolve mainly upon the President, under the clause which confers upon him the right to suspend immigration and the introduction of goods from abroad whenever in his opinion the public safety requires it.

As the new Quarantine bill finally passed both houses of Congress, the national quarantine officers do not supersede the local officers but co-operate with them and there is no provision against local regulations cutting off commercial intercourse between our own cities. As the matter stands, therefore our safety depends largely upon the President, and he will need all his wisdom to apply the law in such a way as to protect the country and at the same time interfere as little as possible with the travel that may be expected to set this way from abroad in anticipation of the World's Fair.

CABINET ANNOUNCEMENTS

At last Mr Cleveland has made what seems to be an official announcement of the names of four of his proposed Cabinet officers. Judge Gresham is to be Secretary of State, Mr Carlisle Secretary of the Treasury, Mr Lamont Secretary of War and Mr Bissell Postmaster General. These four officers are those taken out of the domain of mere rumor and rumor . . . and may be considered seriously.

The selection of Judge Gresham is certainly very remarkable and indicates Mr Cleveland's purpose of making a . . . to suit himself regardless of the general sentiment of the Democratic party. If Mr Harrison had been re-elected and had invited Mr George Ticknor Curtis to become his Secretary of State an analogous case would have been presented. There is no precedent for such a selection unless one can be made out of Washington's choice of Jefferson as his minister for foreign affairs and even there the parallel scarcely holds good.

In the case of Mr Bissell Mr Cleveland follows the precedent made by President Harrison in appointing Mr Miller attorney general. Both Mr Bissell and Mr Lamont are personal rather than political appointments. That is to say both men have been personal friends of Mr Cleveland, and may be expected, in the conduct of their offices to carry out Mr Cleveland's personal wishes, to be his lieutenants that is, in a sense in which Mr Endicott and Mr Vilas were not.

Both these gentlemen being from New York it is not probable that Mr Isidor Straus will be in the Cabinet. Mr Cleveland will scarcely disregard all geographical claims. If these two men represent the East and Messrs Gresham and Carlisle the middle west and if Mr Herbert of Alabama and Mr Hoke Smith of Georgia are taken in as representatives of the South the great West the States lying on this side of the Mississippi valley will alone be left unrepresented. . . that if geographical considerations are to be at all controlling the remaining Cabinet offices will be filled by western men.

Few things are more satisfactory than a charitable ball to those engaged in it. The sense of social enjoyment is supplemented and intensified by the feeling that one is advancing a worthy cause. Of this sort was the Colonial ball in Denver. As a social success it was superior to anything that has ever occurred in this state. The object for which it was given the permanent recognition of the moral grandeur of the mother of our first president was a most worthy one. Each participant had therefore double reason for satisfaction.

Mr Balfour's reply to Mr Gladstone's speech on the new Home Rule bill was certainly trenchant and to the last degree aggressive and aroused much enthusiasm in the ranks of his followers. But more significant was the declaration of Mr Redmond the Parnellite leader, that he and his followers could not support the bill without important amendments guaranteeing more absolutely the autonomy of the proposed Irish parliament. Mr Gladstone's bark is on a stormy sea and it will need all his skill to navigate it safely.

The book social for the free reading room affords an opportunity of doing a real good at a very small cost. There are a great many books which one enjoys reading once, but which are thereafter left untouched upon the shelves. The mission of such books is to circulate. Most of our readers have at least one such volume and the free library offers the opportunities of putting it where it will do the most good.

If the members of the New Mexico legislature see fit to visit Colorado on a junketing trip, that is their affair, and Colorado does well to extend them a cordial welcome. But for Colorado legislators to return the visit at the expense of the people and in time for which they have been paid by the people is something against which there ought to be a protest that will be heard.

FROM STATE EXCHANGES

The Rio Grande Junction railway has about completed its portion of the flume work on the Hallett ditch 6800 feet at a cost of $15,000. The ditch commences at mile No. 18½ and extends to post 85, with its various windings, being about twenty miles in length. It is estimated that the ditch will cost from $60,000 to $75,000 and will irrigate about seven thousand acres of land. This is a great enterprise and will no doubt result in the rapid settlement and development of that section of Garfield county.—New Castle Nonpareil.

The depot building at Antlers caught fire last night at 10:30 o'clock and burned to the ground. The fire is said to have been caused by the mail sack being thrown through the window which struck the lamp exploding it.—New Castle Nonpareil.

Was It an Earthquake.

The residents of the valley along Current creek, near Canon city, believe they have undergone a shock of earthquake and much excitement has prevailed there within the last two days in consequence. On Thursday night a strong wind came up in that vicinity and blew for several hours. At about 10 o'clock there was a sudden and sharp . . . of the earth waking nearly every one in the district. The houses shook and . . . buildings which were only partly built were jarred. Window glass was broken in several houses, and a number of people left their homes fearing another severe shock. The vibration lasted fully a minute. Many seem confident that it was an earthquake shock. . . There was no serious outcome and the people returned to their beds.—Salida Mail.

As evidence of the character and excellence of the exhibits which are . . . at the World's Fair from abroad the following description given by the Madras Mail of a casket made by a jewelry firm in far away Ceylon expressly for the Fair is given. It is undoubtedly one of the finest if not the very finest—piece of work and the most costly and valuable ever turned out of a Ceylon establishment. The box is 14 in. long by 7 in. broad and is made of carved ivory on silver with bead and . . . Ratnapura work along its side and edges. The lid is of silver richly chased with designs of elephants and cocoanut trees, while the whole is covered with blue plush. Its chief claim to notice however is the fact that it is very richly studded with gems none but Ceylon stones being used. All round the rim is a row of fine pearls—300 in number—whilst lower down is a row of rubies of good weight and fine color. The lid is lined with a complete collection of the best stones, including pearls, sapphires, rubies, cats eyes, tourmalines etc. and this fact gives a great value to the casket whilst the ivory panels are carved to represent various products of the land such as paddy, cinnamon coffee tea, etc. With the casket is an ivory elephant caparisoned with gold trappings as if for a perahara, and carrying a gold shrine on its back. The whole exhibit is valued at £4,000 (£5,000) by the firm in question and it certainly is a piece of work which reflects the highest credit.

A Cure For Dyspepsia.

A sallow faced unhappy looking man came to Dr B's office one day when the writer chanced to be present. He wanted some medicine for dyspepsia.

Among other questions, the doctor asked "How long a time do you usually spend at dinner?"

"I dunno exactly," replied the patient "10 or 15 minutes I guess."

"Does your food taste good?" Dr B asked.

"That it does," was the reply "but half an hour after I've eaten I'm near dying with distress."

"Do you drink much with your food—tea, coffee or water?"

"A pretty considerable amount," answered the man.

"Yours is a grave case," said the doctor "but I can help you if you'll follow my directions."

Dr B gave the man a dark colored mixture in a bottle and said "Now it is of the utmost importance that this medicine be taken properly. Put a teaspoonful into your cup of tea or coffee at each meal, stir it in thoroughly and with each mouthful of food take a very small sip and then chew chew chew in order to mix it completely with the food. Do this and report to me in a week."

Two weeks later I saw this dyspeptic again but I scarcely recognized him, he was so much improved in looks.

"That medicine of yours works like a charm," he said to the doctor. "I've about forgotten that I have a stomach."

"That's good," responded Dr B. "Continue taking it in the same way for three months, and you'll be a well man."

Then as the man went out Dr B said to me:

"The whole story of that man's cure is in the word mastication. It is merely what I said to him chew chew chew. But he wouldn't have believed it without the medicine which was the simplest. The man was bolting his food and I stopped it."—Youth's Companion.

Her Nose Saved by a Stranger's Kindness.

A young man who has lived in Canada and seen what Jack Frost can do when he is in an angry mood was walking across Boston common one morning when the thermometer was registering below zero. As he passed a pretty girl and glanced at her face he noticed that the end of her nose was very white while the remainder of it was very red. He recognized the symptoms in an instant. The flesh looked as if it was on fire, except where it was so white and there it had the appearance of wax. He promptly accosted the young woman.

"Excuse me miss," he said "but your face is frozen."

"Frozen," she said. "What do you mean?"

"I mean," he replied "that your nose is frostbitten and very badly too."

Then he advised her to accompany him to a drug store and have the frozen member attended to at once. She submitted without questioning, for the young man talked as if he knew what he was talking about.

After getting her into a warm place he rubbed the tip of the nose briskly with snow and the blood came creeping back into the chilled arteries. The patient winced under the pain which could not have been greater if she had had needles jabbed into every pore of the frozen flesh. She stood it bravely enough however and when the circulation of blood was restored the young man left her in care of the druggist and his liniments, and went on the way rejoicing that he had been able to save the pretty girl from disfigurement for life.—Boston Herald.

Too Sensitive.

In a certain household where the doctrine of kindness is continually preached to the youthful members there was observed to be a look of extreme gloom on the face of one of the boys.

"What is it Fred?" asked Fred's elder sister.

"Well I'll tell you," grieved the small boy. "You an mamma are always telling me to be kind to animals an never hurt them. An I was in the kitchen when the grocerman came and we've got animal cakes and animals of candy. An it hurts my feelings to eat them."

"Fred," said his sister "do you know what turkey is?"

"Turkey's turkey," replied the small boy.

"But a turkey is an animal, a bird—a live bird."

"What! What!" cried the startled Fred and when it was finally made plain to him he wept and refused to be comforted.

The moral of this story is that a boy should be taught natural history before becoming a member of societies for prevention of cruelty to animals. Knowledge might affect his decision about joining.—New York World.

An Anecdote of Parson Lee.

Parson Lee was a mulatto who ran away from Virginia and made his way to Connecticut. He always said that he had belonged to the famous Lee family of Virginia, and that in a certain sense he still had a connection . . . At any rate he was a man of parts and energy. In Connecticut he became a Second Adventist and as such . . . went to preach. So he became . . . Sea . . . and he went as a missionary among the Shinnecocks . . . It may be said . . . that the Shinnecocks have frequently changed their church. As to just when they became Christians I know not but it was so long ago that even the oldest among them now remember the celebration of no Indian rites whatever. They were Presbyterians when Parson Lee changed them into Second Adventists. Since his death they have been Congregationalists and now they are Presbyterians again.

During Parson Lee's life . . . of the . . . . . . Hence the faithful together on a certain hill to wait for the . . . . . . They were all dressed in white ascension robes. All day long they waited for the summons. Toward evening some of them grew weary and fell to sleep. Among those were the parson. While he might had fallen some of the irreverent youngsters from Southampton set the dry grass on fire and in a little while with crackle and smoke the fire was . . . the white robed and sleeping Shinnecocks. The smoke and heat awoke the slumberers and among them Parson Lee. The parson jumped to his feet and beholding the encircling fire exclaimed in a loud voice:

"Here we are! Here we are! And just as I expected in the middle of hell!"

I cannot seriously set this down as well authenticated history, but it has become a tradition in Southampton.—John Gilmer Speed in Harper's Weekly.

Electricity In Flat Life.

The longer I live in a flat the firmer believer I will be in the predicted great future of electricity. A flat occupied by a dozen families and constantly heated up to summer heat by steam is simply a reservoir of electricity. Walk across the carpeted room of any flat and many houses for that matter then touch a metallic substance and there will forthwith come a spark at the point of contact and a very decided shock up your arm.

It is startling to the novice.

Whenever I have the energy—and it does not require very much to walk through my flat—I go on a snapping tour and get shocks enough to bring the blush to any flat's rheumatism or paralysis that may be lurking near.

It saves matches however.

I found that out by an accident. I wanted to light the gas. Turning it on and touching a finger to the burner there was a snap and then a blaze.

But it burned my finger.

The children have lots of fun through this easy way of generating electricity. Of course children are always moving quickly and dragging their shoes over the carpets. In consequence they are always charged and have no end of amusement in making the snap come out some one else.

It is a little embarrassing nevertheless to meet a young lady and as you shake hands with her get shocked, if only up to your elbow. A friend of mine at a reception the other day had such an experience and dropped a rosebud's hand so suddenly that she was offended and wouldn't speak to him again, much to his disgust.—New York Herald.

Saving a Maniac From Death.

At the asylum in Livingston county N Y some years ago a young lady from the village obtained a position as attendant in the female ward.

In this way she aided a widowed mother and family dependent upon her for support.

One day an inmate with the cunning characteristic of the disease stole away, and finding a door unguarded crept up stairs into the attic unfastened the trap-door and went out.

The young nurse soon missed her charge and finding the door ajar hastened after her.

The nurse unperceived, grappled her from behind, and after a hard struggle drew her to the door where she was relieved by men who had been . . . to the rescue.

The young lady returned to her work seemingly unconscious of the heroism she had displayed in saving her charge from a terrible death.—Cor New York World.

Spurious Chinese Gods.

Dr Edward Bedloe, United States consul at Amoy, China, has recently sent to the state department in Washington an interesting account of the traffic in joss—the hideous little idols that visitors to the Flowery Kingdom invariably bring back with them. Mr Bedloe says that Amoy and Canton are the places which supply travelers and curio dealers with these articles. They are manufactured wholesale and retail "moderns" and "antiques," orthodox or to order as may be desired. Much of the joss business is fraud, pious and otherwise. The regulation joss is either a very fat and placid gentleman with a large genius for lolling or a dignified virtuous female with a superfluous number of arms and hands.

But these styles did not suit merchants who desired to astonish their folks at home. So to please their customers the Mongolian joss maker with a keen eye for the main chance turns out an assorted lot of clay hobgoblins warranted to frighten the blood of a small boy or produce hysterics in a nervous and dyspeptic girl. In this category come the man with the tiger face and ferocious fangs, the so called god of hunger who is only an everyday half starved opium smoker and the snake god who probably is a phase of delirium tremens. None of these belongs to Chinese art. They are simply fakes made for the markets of Christendom.—Philadelphia Press.

POPULATION OF COLORADO SPRINGS

A D 1900 - 10,000.

There is no reason why the rate of increase will not be as great as for the past seven years. It ought to be greater. The city will then cover three times the territory it does at present.

DOES ANYONE DOUBT

That in seven years the value of every foot of ground in and around the city will have doubled? Well! that is better than 10 per cent compound interest. A superb investment! Colorado Springs real estate is the best. If mine you can strike. It has always paid good dividends.

A Cure for Snake Bite.

Another treatment for snake bite ... added to the long list ... have come from ... said that the natives of ... comparatively little fear of snake bites. They keep always at hand a piece of string made of human hair. The string is tied tightly three or four inches above the bite, a small circle an eighth of an inch deep is cut around the two fang punctures with a knife and the largest vein below the bite is slit to allow the blood to run out. The last stage of this heroic treatment is the turning on of a stream of water to the affected part and the rubbing down steadily of the limb for about twenty minutes.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Number Three in Daily Life.

In the nursery rhymes and tales of childhood who cannot remember the "Three Wise Men of Gotham" who took a voyage in a bowl not to mention the luckless trio of blind mice whose tails were cut off by the farmer's wife.

Examples of this sort might be multiplied indefinitely, but coming down to everyday life, our meals are regulated by the rule of three, while the sick patient would be guilty of treason to his doctor if he refused to take his medicine three times a day.—New York News.

A New Game in Paris.

There is in Paris a game called drawing room confidences, which consists in the presentation to each guest of a little album containing a series of questions on one's personal character tastes and predilections to be answered in writing. The game is certainly not new. It used to be very familiar in London and the provinces some years ago and perhaps it still lingers here and there in certain English drawing rooms.—London Letter.

CRIPPLE CREEK A GREAT SUCCESS.

The success of Cripple Creek as a great gold mining ... is now assured beyond question. The dead work has been done on a large number of claims and many mines are on pay ore. Travel into the camp continues unabated; an average of fifty people going in daily. The Colorado Midland has 300 men employed in completing the extension into the camp, and as soon as the branch line is in operation a new impetus will be given to the camp. The route into Cripple Creek is via the Midland Railway to Divide station, and thence by Huntley's stage line into Fremont, the center of the district. This is the only quick and feasible route to reach Cripple Creek.

OUR NATURAL RESERVOIRS.

The importance of protecting our natural forest reservoirs in this State has often been urged in the columns of THE GAZETTE and we trust to some purpose. We take pleasure in welcoming the Pueblo Chieftain as an ally in this great cause. In a recent issue The Chieftain says editorially:

The mountains of Colorado are literally buried in snow. The amount that has fallen in all the ranges is phenomenal. Even down by the Divide the snow has been fully ... at Buena Vista while in at least one place ... the continental divide it is known to be twelve feet deep on a level. This vast quantity of water in southern and central Colorado must flow out through three ... and of course the Arkansas river will get as much as both the other two. If the upper valley was supplied with reservoirs and shaded with forests there is doubtless water enough in sight to irrigate every foot of land between the Rocky mountains and the Kansas line. As it is about eight-tenths of the water will get away and go out of the state.

We may expect an immense flow in the river this spring, beginning unusually early, because the snow is so low down in the valleys. May and June will witness a powerful current which will come within three or four feet of the bridges. There will be the usual sudden drop about the middle of July. Owing to the great depth of the snow in the higher ranges there will probably be no lack of water for all the ditches this season. For which reason we will all move along in our usual happy-go-lucky style, paying no attention to the future, and making no provision for either artificial reservoirs (dams) or natural reservoirs (trees).

The Chieftain inclines to be pessimistic. Why should "we all move along in happy-go-lucky style"? The President has already established five forest reservations in this State to protect our head waters, and four more are under consideration. What is most urgently needed now is the adoption of some system of effective supervision over them. This should be urged by every newspaper in the state, and we hope it will be. If these reservations were placed temporarily under control of the United States army, depredations would be apt to ... at once, and great good would result.

As for artificial reservoirs, that is ... a different question which must some time be considered. Meantime, let us all do what we can toward the preservation of our natural reservoirs.

HISTORIC SPOTS IN WASHINGTON.

Our national capital has become one of the most beautiful cities in the Union. It has taken a hundred years for the city to grow up to the plan upon which it was laid out by that prophetic engineer, Major L'Enfant, but now that it has so grown up, the beauty of the plan, and its fitness and adequacy, are fully recognized.

But Washington ought to be, and is, much more than a beautiful city. It is an historic city. There have lived and worked most of the greatest men our nation has produced. There have died some of our foremost statesmen. Some memorials of these men ought to be preserved. The houses where they have lived or died should be marked by tablets or otherwise, so that the wayfaring stranger may know their historic interest.

But this is not a sort of thing that will get itself done, and we are glad to see that a Memorial Association has been organized in the District of Columbia whose purpose it is to preserve and mark suitably houses and places associated with great men in our national history. Their first step will be to purchase the house in which President Lincoln died and preserve it as a memorial of him. This is a good work and should receive the assistance of the public and of Congress.

HOKE SMITH.

Somehow the name of Hoke Smith seems to appeal rather to the risibilities than to the understandings of most of our northern contemporaries when Mr Cleveland's cabinet is discussed. The New York Tribune devotes half a column to a humorous editorial on Mr Smith and evidently does not consider him as a serious possibility for a cabinet officer.

Late dispatches would indicate that it is very possible—indeed probable that Mr Hoke Smith may be selected by Mr Cleveland either as Secretary of the Interior or Postmaster General, therefore some account of him may be in order.

In the first place then Hoke Smith is a lawyer—the leading criminal lawyer of the state of Georgia. He is a man little over forty of powerful physique and good presence. His disposition is confident, aggressive optimistic. He is a good talker and a quick thinker and actor. He is the proprietor of the Atlanta Journal, and it was due mainly to his influence and that of his paper that Georgia was brought into line for Cleveland at the Chicago convention. Although Mr Smith is not we believe a "scion" of one of the historical families of the southern aristocracy he and his paper represent the "high toned" people of Atlanta while his practice in defending criminals has brought him in touch with the masses. He possesses large executive ability and Mr Cleveland might in selecting members of his cabinet go farther and fare worse than if he ... Hoke Smith as one of his counsellors.

THE ARID LANDS BILL.

A bill is now pending in the House of Representatives at Washington providing for the cession to the several States of the government arid lands remaining within their borders. Of this bill the Denver Republican says:

When the ... of Kansas ... grand scale the reclamation of the arid lands ... the ... in the last ... attempt to induce Congress to make appropriations for the construction of reservoirs and ditches. Doubtless when the whole matter was in a crude state, there were many persons who thought that the best way to dispose of the matter ... But it was not long until a more full examination of the subject showed that the only practicable way to reclaim the arid lands was to transfer the title of them to the States subject to certain conditions as to the disposition of the land to settlers—and let the States do the work of reclamation. Some objections were made to this based upon the alleged fear that the people would be deprived of their heritage in the public domain. But none of these objections has had real weight with the people who have carefully considered the subject.

The cession of these lands to the States would relieve the general government from the duty of ... them. The fear which was awakened in the east ...

We have examined the bill referred to and believe it to be a good one. There is however very little prospect of its passing in this Congress. Only about fifteen more days remain in which to wind up ... and there are many ... bills which have ... It is ... not the Democratic but the Republican party which pledged itself in its platform last June to the policy of cession of the arid lands ... hardly expect a Democratic House to pass the bill even if it were in a more advanced stage. ... the present therefore we fear that the arid lands must remain as they are.

Sioux City, the Corn Palace city of the World, is arranging to ... its ... peculiar festivals this year. The date of opening is fixed for September ... continuing until October 18th, 1893, and the management promises attractions that shall far surpass anything heretofore presented. It is expected that many of the thousands who will attend the World's Fair can be induced to extend their visit to Sioux City and view the marvels in cereal decoration which will be so perfectly shown and at the same time gain a correct idea of the greatest corn producing territory on the globe.

Silver in India

The Indian demand for silver for immediate delivery continues good, the price fluctuating in the vicinity of 38¼d per ounce. The Indian export trade is very active. Both the cotton and the rice crops being large, and the weather reports being good it is hoped that the wheat exports will also be very large. Evidently the over-supply of silver due to the immense imports of 1890 has now been absorbed and the demand for silver is likely to continue. During 1890 the bank rates in Bombay and Calcutta ranged from 3 per cent the lowest to 12 per cent the highest. During 1891 the range was only from 2 per cent to 4 per cent. Last year it was from 2 per cent to 5 per cent, but already this year the rate in Bengal has gone up to 6 per cent and in Bombay to 5 per cent. There are signs, too, of improvement in the Indian import trade.—[London Correspondent of the The Chronicle.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES.

The king of Siam at his own expense, has decided to make an interesting display in the manufactures, agricultural and forestry buildings at the World's Fair, and will also erect a royal pavilion of elaborate carved woods.

The Royal Chorus society of Belgium, more than a hundred strong will visit the World's Fair and take part in the concerts in choral hall. The chorus recently gave a series of concerts in London for charitable purposes and was received with enthusiasm.

The Michigan World's Fair board will make an exhibition of its newspapers. The first page of every newspaper or magazine published in the state will be mounted on a wood veneer leaf, varnished the same as mounted maps are prepared, and hung on leaf standards.

The list of Germany's exhibitors at the Fair contains 507 names. Represented in it are 230 cities and towns of the empire and of these forty cities send more than ten exhibits each. Berlin leads with 283 exhibitors. Munich follows with 18, Leipsic with 149, Frankfort, 55, Hamburg, 57, and Chemnitz, 41.

The Patterson and Newark mills of New Jersey will make a splendid silk exhibit at the World's Fair. The silk in all its stages of manufacture will be displayed together with the silk worms and cocoons from which the silken threads will be spun and passed through various manipulations until they appear in the finished silk texture ready for the market.

The British section at the World's Fair will be decorated in part by some seventy banners bearing respectively the arms of different municipal corporations in the kingdom such as London, Edinburgh, Dublin, Ayr, Canterbury, etc. The British royal commission invited the corporations to furnish the banners and some loaned those they possessed while others had their official insignia reproduced for the occasion.

The white city, as the World's Fair grounds and buildings are termed, has the equipment of a modern municipality. It has a combined water capacity of 54,000,000 gallons a day and will soon have 100 ... It has twenty-five miles of water mains and 1 ... hydrants. A hundred more will be provided. There are three steam engines, four chemical engines, a ladder truck, water tower, forty hose carts ... feet of ... hand fire extinguishers, 250 fire ... a steam fire boat, 90 firemen, 150 ... boxes, 100 patrol telephones, 500 guards ... electric light and sewerage systems, etc. By the time the Fair opens many of these facilities and equipments will be greatly increased and perfected.

Special days are to be a great feature at the World's Fair. Nearly if not quite every state of the Union will have its day upon which special exercises will be held and its governor and staff, other state officers, militia and thousands of its distinguished and other citizens will be in attendance. Receptions will be held at the state buildings respectively and the governors and others will make speeches. Many musical, civic and secret societies also have made application for a special day upon which to hold exercises peculiar to themselves. Among them are the Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias and Foresters. The Welsh Eisteddfod will have an entire week for a musical celebration. It is believed that these special features will draw many additional thousands of visitors to the Fair. Arrangements for these special days are being made by Colonel ... secretary of the ceremonies committee, which had the dedication day exercises in charge.

THE FIRST SETTLER.

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE ORIGINAL FOUNDER OF BOSTON.

William Blackstone Who First Lived on the Charles River Was Obliged to Move Away From Puritan Influences. His Solitary Life In Rhode Island.

In the year of 1617 there graduated from Emmanuel college, England, a young man named William Blackstone. He afterward became a clergyman ... nature was quiet and retired and he preferred the company of books to the society of people. He did not ... his brother clergymen ... king ... of England ... the Puritans in all church matters and ... William Blackstone with many other Englishmen found the rules and regulations very trying; they left England and came to America.

Mr Blackstone looked about for land upon which to build a house, chose the land upon which the city of Boston now stands. It was then called Shawmut. Here in his 30th year this solitary bookish recluse built a dwelling. The house stood somewhere on the west slope of Beacon hill not far from what are now Beacon and Spruce streets ... from this spot he commanded the mouth of the Charles river. Here he lived all alone. There was no other house in Shawmut. He planted a garden and a number of apple trees. It is said that he planted the first orchard in Massachusetts and also the first in Rhode Island. He traded with the Indians and tended his garden and orchard.

The winters must have been long and dreary, but not to him. His books were company for him. He had brought with him from England his library consisting of 186 volumes. He lived in this quiet, solitary way for two or three years. Then a few white men came and settled on the northern edge of the Charles river. The name of Charlestown was given to the little settlement. Charles I was king of England at that time and the town and river were named for him. A year later a larger company of men came to Charlestown. Their leader was John Winthrop, who had been made governor of the whole Massachusetts colony.

It was not long before Governor Winthrop and his company were in great trouble. A terrible sickness came upon the colony owing to the failing of the springs at Charlestown. Many of the people died.

Mr Blackstone had a kind heart even if he was queer. He knew that in Shawmut, near where he was living, water was pure and plenty. He went to Governor Winthrop, and told him of a "very excellent spring" in the eastern part of Shawmut and urged him to leave Charlestown and come there. Governor Winthrop was only too glad to do as Mr Blackstone advised, and the colony immediately packed all their belongings and came over to Shawmut. The governor was about to build a fine house in Charlestown for his own use. The frame was standing, and he even carried that over to Shawmut.

What a change the coming of these people made in that quiet place, where only one man had lived before! Houses were built, streets were laid out, and behold a town! The town was named Boston.

Now came trouble and disquiet to the heart of poor William Blackstone. The colony which had come to be his neighbors had rules and regulations which were just as distasteful as the laws of the Church of England. Unless he would join the church he could not vote or take part in public affairs. He would not join the church and he soon felt ill at ease in the town. His neighbors bothered him with their active life and he felt out of place among them even while he belonged there.

So he decided to go away. This decision must have made him very sad, for here were all his interests. Here was the little home he had made for himself, and the garden and orchard he had taken so much pleasure and pride in tending. He reserved the six acres on which his house, garden and orchard stood and sold his right to the remainder of the peninsula for £30 which was raised by a tax of 6 shillings or more on each inhabitant. This 6-acre lot he kept for some time longer, though he never lived upon it again. Part of the land bought from him was used by the townfolks as a training field, as a "common" where all might pasture their cows. That very land is still the "common."

Mr Blackstone purchased cattle with a portion of the money obtained from the sale of his land and removed to a place on the river now called by his name a few miles north of Providence. Although he was the first white man to settle in Rhode Island he took no part in founding the colony and always acknowledged allegiance to Massachusetts.

Here, about forty miles from Boston, on the eastern bank of a narrow river in a lovely fertile valley Mr Blackstone found a meadow which rose in three stretches like three long wide steps. On the first of these he built a house, on the second he dug a well. He planted a new apple orchard and cultivated a new garden. The place came to be known as Rehoboth, but is now called Lonsdale and the river was named for him—the Blackstone.

He again lived the life of a hermit, and was even farther away from people than he had been at Shawmut.

All this time the town of Providence, seven miles away—was growing. Mr Blackstone often went there to preach, and he was fond of the young children of the place. He very often used to carry them some of his fine apples.

Once in a while he visited his old home in Boston. The town was growing rapidly. After living 24 years at Rehoboth Mr Blackstone married a Boston woman, a Mrs Martha Stevenson. They were married on the 4th of July and kept that day as a holiday every year. They little knew then that by and by a whole new nation would be keeping that day as a holiday to celebrate its independence. Later a son was born, and Mr Blackstone was a happy father.

He died on the 26th of May 1675. About a month after his death a war began between the white men and some of the Indians and a party of the Indians coming to Rehoboth set fire to Mr Blackstone's house and burned and carried off everything in it. The cellar of his house is still to be seen and the small hill where he used to read.—Goldthwaite's Geographical Magazine.

A Fireman's Heroic Act

On the night of Dec. 5, 1890 Charles T Holloway superintendent of the insurance patrol of Baltimore performed a deed of moral and physical courage never surpassed. A large fire had broken out in a big tobacco warehouse on South Charles street. The insurance patrol was the first to reach the scene. And after ... when there were a dozen firemen within the burning building Mr Holloway observed that the front portion of the floor was about to fall in such a manner that if the flaming timbers were all ... to come to the ground they would close the only exit which was by the front door. Rushing forward he caught the blazing mass upon his shoulders. He was a man of herculean strength and so able to sustain the heavy weight.

He had just shouted to the men behind him to hurry out when the first floor on the right collapsed and his brother fell. He way fell almost at his feet, his clothes on fire. By deserting his post and probably sacrificing the lives of the men back of him Superintendent Holloway might have saved his brother, who was calling to him for help, but he never flinched. He bent his broad shoulders to the burden upon them, spoke cheerily to his brother and literally held that gate of fire until all the men had passed out. Then his strength gave way and in the early morning the rescuers dragged the Holloways, scorched and maimed from the ruins. But the brothers lived and in token of his almost miraculous deliverance Superintendent Holloway presented to St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Baltimore, the handsome marble altar that stands in its chancel this day.—E. A. Price in New York Press.

She Was Indignant

At one of the up town stations a line of women stood in front of the stamp department and made life miserable for the man behind it.

"How much'll it take to carry this?" demanded a woman, handing in a small box. It was very heavy.

"What does this contain?" asked the clerk.

"What does it contain? A present," snapped the lady.

"What material?"

"Do I have to confide every detail of my affairs to that man?" asked the lady of her companion.

"Here, madam, take your package and stand aside," commanded the clerk as the line lengthened.

"I shall do nothing of the sort," declared the woman in irate tones. "I want to know how many stamps that package requires, and you've got to tell me."

"I must know if this package contains confectionery."

"It does."

"You will have to put it in a tin box. We do not send candy in pasteboard."

And the woman said as she walked away: "I shall report that man for his intolerable insolence."—New York World.

Digging For Kauri Gum

The ordinary method of ... for kauri gum in New Zealand is by first feeling for it a little below the surface with a steel pointed pike of trouble called a "gum spear," and then digging it out with a spade. A skillful and industrious digger can earn as much as £3 to £4 per week at the work, and even children can earn a few shillings a day, but, as the gum fields offer a refuge for all sorts and conditions of men, many who are old and infirm ... to the average earnings are reduced to £1 1s or £2 a week. The gum is used principally in the manufacture of varnish but it is also found useful for many other purposes, such as ... "glazed calicoes, etc.—London Times.

In a dangerous emergency AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is prompt to act and sure to cure. A dose taken on the first symptoms of Croup or Bronchitis checks further progress of these complaints. It soothes the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membrane and induces sleep. As a remedy for colds, coughs, loss of voice, la grippe, pneumonia, and even consumption in its early stages, excels all similar preparations. It is endorsed by leading physicians, is agreeable to the taste, does not interfere with digestion, and needs to be taken in small doses.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

From repeated tests in my own family, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has proved itself a very efficient remedy for colds, coughs, and the various disorders of the throat and lungs.—A. W. Bartlett, ... N. H.

Back to the creek again we ascend ... upper chambers. The first is the beautiful White room or Bridal Chamber, awaiting its bride the silver queen in the ore body below. A white throne is located between this and the Mineral chamber at the right. Ore eight feet thick is opened up here lead carbonate ore and several hundred tons are in sight, but it will have to be reached by the tunnel from below, as it would be impossible to carry it out at the mouth of the cave. Shelves of carbonate of lime adorn this room—"White Room" giving a very charming effect. At the extremity of this chamber we cast stones into a deep but inaccessible one. We find another one a pair of white wings ... hanging in stalactite form. The ... of the White Wings" ... der grows. But why try to exhaust our mineral? To sum up, we have a dozen rooms in part ornamented and in part devoted to chemistry and in part to mineral exhibits for the encouragement of the prospector to look below for its riches.

There are other prospects in ... camp. Mr Moffat has interest in the "Hundred Development company." A diamond drill is at work there. A tunnel is running in and good results are expected this summer. ATCHISON TOPEKA AND SANTA FE.

PERSONALLY CONDUCTED EXCURSIONS TO CALIFORNIA

Jack Frost stimulates travel. When he touches our ears we think about getting warm. California has the ideal winter climate just far enough south to be sunshiny and frostless and ... in the air.

Santa Fe Route takes Jack Frost's hints and has arranged a series of personally conducted weekly excursions to California. Pullman Tourist Sleepers furnished with bedding, toilet articles, etc., leave Chicago and St Louis every Saturday evening and leave Kansas City every Sunday morning via A. T. & S. F. and A. & P. line for Los Angeles and San Francisco on fast express trains.

Special agents and porters in attendance. Second-class tickets honored. A small charge for use of tourist sleeper. Everything ... and comfortable.

The Populists Ready

The gentlemen of the city who style themselves the Populists seem to be taking more interest in the coming municipal elections than any other class and are ready for the fight whatever it may be They held a preliminary meeting last evening to appoint committees to organize the work The meeting was held in the city council room and about two dozen people were present Mr L. F. Dickson was chosen chairman and J M Down... secretary

Mr William Scott announced the object of a meeting to be the organization for work which would include the appointing of the central committee There seemed to be a good many orators present and after speeches were called for a number spoke and proceeded to air their views for over an hour Among them were Mr Dickson Mr Scott Judge Abbott Alderman Finlegan and others The discussion included a wide range of questions from ... to constitutional government It might also be said incidentally that it included a number of thrusts at the local government as well as his excellency the Populist governor The meeting finally got around to the work of the evening and the following city central committee was appointed First ward William Henderson second ward, Charles Guysler third ward Henry Parks fourth ward Mr Wilson fifth ward D M Wright It was voted that the committee should meet next Saturday evening and make its call for city and ward conventions to nominate candidates

The meeting concluded with a few more remarks from various parties, during which Henry Parks advocated paying aldermen larger salaries so that poor men could afford to accept the offices. William Scott, however, said "that we have came here because we are interested in good government." He did not think that anyone present was looking for office, but still there are good men in town who would accept them for the sake of benefiting the city

The Second annual ball of the Colorado Springs police force was given in Durkee hall last evening, and was a pronounced success It was thought that the first ball last year could hardly be beaten but the one last evening excelled it in every way The policemen have chosen St. Valentine's night for their annual entertainments and devote the proceeds to charity No one has a better opportunity than they to know where charity is needed in the city, and the people understanding this are always liberal in their patronage Durkee hall was filled to overflowing last night and it is estimated that fully four hundred people were present. In fact the crowd was too large to permit of dancing comfortably until a late hour in the evening

The arrangements were perfect in every way The opera house orchestra furnished the music for the evening, the full orchestra being present, and Mr Chas Berry was the caller At 11 o'clock supper was served at the various restaurants of the city. The decorations of the room included a large floral piece suspended from the ceiling It represented a policeman's star of six points made of cut flowers In the center and from the various points of the star were blue electric lights. The effect was very beautiful The order of dances consisted of twenty numbers, and the programme was very handsomely printed On the front was a small photograph of City marshal Dana.

The committees having charge of the affair were as follows Arrangements—Marshal L C Dana, Capt. J W Gathright Officers Steve Harlan and Horace Shelby reception L. C Dana, R. M Martin Henry Shank James McCabe floor committee J W Gathright, M J Wilson Joel Atkinson C F Taylor

Marshal Dana and all of the policemen were present during the evening and did everything in their power to make the occasion pleasant A goodly sum will be realized to be devoted to charitable purposes
